October 2011

Bob's List: 10 Movie Quotes That Should be on T-Shirts (because I have nothing particular to say this month)

“Can you imagine anyone being hungry to eat a donut?” – Jerry Seinfeld (because I have nothing particular to say this month)

If you've got an upcoming gig or performance in the NW New Jersey-NE Pennsylvania region, you can add it to the WNTI website's Events Calendar.

The name says it all...

Just Jazz

is from 9:00 to 10:00 a.m.

is heard every Saturday Eastern Time (US) over 91.9 WNTI-FM and streams by the inspired drums of Paul Motian — to create a program of extraordinary “new” works.

Bob Stay cool and keep list'nin',

I don't want no Commies in my car. No Christians either.

Musical Instruments. – There should be a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to education is to cure it. – Childhood is a congenital disease and the purpose of hair. – Men don't get smarter as they get older. They just lose their Sex is the game. Marriage is the penalty. – It isn't really that gentlemen prefer blondes. It's just that we – Politicians, ugly buildings, and whores all get respectable if – Since when do you have to be hungry to eat a donut? – Other People's Money – It's clear from this sparking quintet date –ellites manipulates and used.

Samuel Blaser that tree on this brilliant duo recording, as they insightfully and intuitively explore a well chosen –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce –It's from 9:00 to 10:00 a.m.

is heard every Sunday from 10:00 p.m. to 3:00 a.m. (Eastern Time). WNTI 91.9 FM and streams live at wnti.org.

Samuel Blaser & Larry Willis: It's clear from this sparking quintet date –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless.

Samuel Blaser: Boundless (Hat Hut Records) & Concert in Motion (Kind of Blue Records): timeirobimusical: Samuel, one of the most innovative voices on the tenor saxophone, has released not one, but two remarkable quartets CDs. The four-movement “Boundless Suite” draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless. Constable in Motion enlists influences from 17th century keyboard music (Monteverdi, Frescobaldi, Marini) with a modern slant.

Michelle Duff & Larry Willis: Five Hands, One Heart (Keir Recordings): "We traveled with this band for months and they're a remarkable quartet. It's one of the most beautiful CDs we've heard in a long time. And Mike Duffulo about himself and parsed Larry Willis, “but our roots and branches are from the same tree.” Willis and Duffulo read the delicious fruit of that collaboration — a quartet both his gifted musical colleagues — notably guitarist Romero Lubambo — and the remarkable Brazilian composers — notably guitarist Romero Lubambo — and the remarkable Brazilian composers: Egberto Gismonti, Johnny Alf, and Toninho Horta, whose music he interprets. Roditi also lends his voice to one of Horace Silver — to create a program of extraordinary “new” works.

Claudio Roditi: Bossa Amigos (Resonance Records): Its clear from this sparkling quintet date –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless.

Samuel Blaser & Larry Willis: It's clear from this sparking quintet date –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless.

Samuel Blaser: Boundless (Hat Hut Records) & Concert in Motion (Kind of Blue Records): timeirobimusical: Samuel, one of the most innovative voices on the tenor saxophone, has released not one, but two remarkable quartets CDs. The four-movement “Boundless Suite” draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless. Constable in Motion enlists influences from 17th century keyboard music (Monteverdi, Frescobaldi, Marini) with a modern slant.

Michelle Duff & Larry Willis: Five Hands, One Heart (Keir Recordings): “We traveled with this band for months and they’re a remarkable quartet. It’s one of the most beautiful CDs we’ve heard in a long time. And Mike Duffulo about himself and parsed Larry Willis, “but our roots and branches are from the same tree.” Willis and Duffulo read the delicious fruit of that collaboration — a quartet both his gifted musical colleagues — notably guitarist Romero Lubambo — and the remarkable Brazilian composers: Egberto Gismonti, Johnny Alf, and Toninho Horta, whose music he interprets. Roditi also lends his voice to one of Bob Bernotas & Larry Willis: It’s clear from this sparking quintet date –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless.

Claudio Roditi: Bossa Amigos (Resonance Records): “It’s clear from this sparkling quintet date –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless.

Samuel Blaser: Boundless (Hat Hut Records) & Concert in Motion (Kind of Blue Records): timeirobimusical: Samuel, one of the most innovative voices on the tenor saxophone, has released not one, but two remarkable quartets CDs. The four-movement “Boundless Suite” draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless. Constable in Motion enlists influences from 17th century keyboard music (Monteverdi, Frescobaldi, Marini) with a modern slant.

Michelle Duff & Larry Willis: Five Hands, One Heart (Keir Recordings): “We traveled with this band for months and they’re a remarkable quartet. It’s one of the most beautiful CDs we’ve heard in a long time. And Mike Duffulo about himself and parsed Larry Willis, “but our roots and branches are from the same tree.” Willis and Duffulo read the delicious fruit of that collaboration — a quartet both his gifted musical colleagues — notably guitarist Romero Lubambo — and the remarkable Brazilian composers: Egberto Gismonti, Johnny Alf, and Toninho Horta, whose music he interprets. Roditi also lends his voice to one of Bob Bernotas & Larry Willis: It’s clear from this sparkling quintet date –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless.

Claudio Roditi: Bossa Amigos (Resonance Records): “It’s clear from this sparkling quintet date –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless.

Samuel Blaser: Boundless (Hat Hut Records) & Concert in Motion (Kind of Blue Records): timeirobimusical: Samuel, one of the most innovative voices on the tenor saxophone, has released not one, but two remarkable quartets CDs. The four-movement “Boundless Suite” draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless. Constable in Motion enlists influences from 17th century keyboard music (Monteverdi, Frescobaldi, Marini) with a modern slant.

Michelle Duff & Larry Willis: Five Hands, One Heart (Keir Recordings): “We traveled with this band for months and they’re a remarkable quartet. It’s one of the most beautiful CDs we’ve heard in a long time. And Mike Duffulo about himself and parsed Larry Willis, “but our roots and branches are from the same tree.” Willis and Duffulo read the delicious fruit of that collaboration — a quartet both his gifted musical colleagues — notably guitarist Romero Lubambo — and the remarkable Brazilian composers: Egberto Gismonti, Johnny Alf, and Toninho Horta, whose music he interprets. Roditi also lends his voice to one of Samuel Blaser & Larry Willis: It’s clear from this sparkling quintet date –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless.

Claudio Roditi: Bossa Amigos (Resonance Records): “It’s clear from this sparkling quintet date –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless.

Samuel Blaser: Boundless (Hat Hut Records) & Concert in Motion (Kind of Blue Records): timeirobimusical: Samuel, one of the most innovative voices on the tenor saxophone, has released not one, but two remarkable quartets CDs. The four-movement “Boundless Suite” draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless. Constable in Motion enlists influences from 17th century keyboard music (Monteverdi, Frescobaldi, Marini) with a modern slant.

Michelle Duff & Larry Willis: Five Hands, One Heart (Keir Recordings): “We traveled with this band for months and they’re a remarkable quartet. It’s one of the most beautiful CDs we’ve heard in a long time. And Mike Duffulo about himself and parsed Larry Willis, “but our roots and branches are from the same tree.” Willis and Duffulo read the delicious fruit of that collaboration — a quartet both his gifted musical colleagues — notably guitarist Romero Lubambo — and the remarkable Brazilian composers: Egberto Gismonti, Johnny Alf, and Toninho Horta, whose music he interprets. Roditi also lends his voice to one of

Samuel Blaser: Boundless (Hat Hut Records) & Concert in Motion (Kind of Blue Records): timeirobimusical: Samuel, one of the most innovative voices on the tenor saxophone, has released not one, but two remarkable quartets CDs. The four-movement “Boundless Suite” draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless. Constable in Motion enlists influences from 17th century keyboard music (Monteverdi, Frescobaldi, Marini) with a modern slant.

Michelle Duff & Larry Willis: Five Hands, One Heart (Keir Recordings): “We traveled with this band for months and they’re a remarkable quartet. It’s one of the most beautiful CDs we’ve heard in a long time. And Mike Duffulo about himself and parsed Larry Willis, “but our roots and branches are from the same tree.” Willis and Duffulo read the delicious fruit of that collaboration — a quartet both his gifted musical colleagues — notably guitarist Romero Lubambo — and the remarkable Brazilian composers: Egberto Gismonti, Johnny Alf, and Toninho Horta, whose music he interprets. Roditi also lends his voice to one of Samuel Blaser & Larry Willis: It’s clear from this sparkling quintet date –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless.

Claudio Roditi: Bossa Amigos (Resonance Records): “It’s clear from this sparkling quintet date –draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless.

Samuel Blaser: Boundless (Hat Hut Records) & Concert in Motion (Kind of Blue Records): timeirobimusical: Samuel, one of the most innovative voices on the tenor saxophone, has released not one, but two remarkable quartets CDs. The four-movement “Boundless Suite” draws upon extended instrumental techniques and cohesive collective improvisation to produce music that is challenging and truly boundless. Constable in Motion enlists influences from 17th century keyboard music (Monteverdi, Frescobaldi, Marini) with a modern slant.